Adam Schneider, Ph.D Candidate Department of Anthropology, UC San Diego
"History Repeating Itself? Lessons from the Collapse of the Neo-Assyrian Empire"

Adam Schneider is a PhD candidate in Anthropological Archaeology in the Anthropology Department at UCSD. His research focus is the interrelationship of social transformation and environmental change, with a particular focus on the Bronze and Iron Age periods in the Near East, Mediterranean Basin, and Europe. He is currently in the process of completing his doctoral dissertation, in which he will propose a multi-causal model, which incorporates a variety of cultural, economic, and environmental factors, to explain the process of collapse at Tiriş Höyük, an important Early Bronze Age urban center in the Turkish Euphrates Valley. Outside of his academic research pursuits, he also works to help increase the role of archaeology in the ongoing effort to mitigate the impacts of global climate change in the present.

11:30 am—Lunch and 12:00 noon lecture. Lunch is $14.00 for guests and $10.00 for Faculty Club members (purchase required). Coffee and iced tea are provided in the meeting room. A parking permit can be obtained at the front desk. You can be sure of a lively discussion! You do not need to RSVP. Contact Judy Vacquier, jvacq@sbcglobal.net for more information.

Metaphoric/Geometric (Exhibition closes May 28th, 2015)

Edith High Sanchez

After moving to New York from La Jolla in 1997, my first love was the Brooklyn Bridge: the gothic arches, intertwining cables, wide views and perspectives change with every step, with the time of day and the weather. While I explored my new city's avenues and streets, I had the luxury of free time to dwell on details: reflections of the buildings and bridges in skyscrapers, in car windows, in rivers and even in the puddles; unusual juxtapositions, scaffolding, museums, abstract patternsthese became the subjects of my new passion for photography.

As Alain Cohen and I culled through my images, categories emerged – abstracts of reflections, stairways, arches, circles, vanishing points and more. I realized that the places and views that spoke to me were expressions and metaphors for interpreting my world. To Alain, the defining term was “Geometric” which underscored the perceptible rigor of the artwork, and for me it was “Metaphoric” as I remembered my feelings and passions at the time.

It seemed the perfect title with which to filter the choices. The ongoing experience of looking at them on the walls and discussing them with friends renews those moments of delight, brings new insights and motivates me to continue on this exciting journey of discovery of myself and my world.

Members Annual Meeting

Tuesday, May 19, 2015

Come join us for the Annual Members' Meeting from 4:30-6:00pm. Take this opportunity to mingle with members of the Board of Directors as well as show an active interest in the goings on and future of the Club. There will be snacks and plenty of chances to make new acquaintances.

We look forward to seeing you!

REMINDER! Nominations for the Faculty Club Board of Directors are now open! They are due at the Annual Meeting on May 19th. If possible, nominees should attend this meeting at 4:30pm at the Club. For more information, contact Lynn Russell (lmrussell@ucsd.edu), the Chair of the Nominating Committee.
